EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

This chapter includes educational institutions owned and operated by the Seventh-day Adventist Church around the world, arranged in alphabetic order of their English-equivalent names. The listed entities are grouped in five sections. The first lists post-secondary or tertiary institutions—colleges, seminaries, and universities. The second presents mid-level institutions. The third lists secondary schools. The fourth and fifth provide statistics on Seventh-day Adventist primary schools and worker training institutions, respectively, in each of the world divisions.

Institutions included are classified according to the following categories:

- G A tertiary-level institution offering one or more graduate degree programs under its own authority.
C A tertiary-level institution offering one or more baccalaureate degrees under its own authority.
MLI Offers education beyond the secondary level but less than a four-year bachelor's degree, typically leading to employment as a mid-level practitioner.
CS A complete secondary school (providing basic requirements for admission to tertiary institutions in the country).
CSB A complete secondary school (providing basic requirements for admission to tertiary institutions in the country), with boarding facilities.
PS A partial secondary school (providing education less than the maximum grade required to complete the basic requirements for admission to tertiary institutions in the country), requires transfer to a complete secondary school.
PRI Primary schools provide 4-7 years elementary education, requires transfer to a secondary school to continue education.
WT An employee training school offering secondary-level and/or advanced studies.

Note: Secondary schools, mid-level institutions, colleges, seminaries, and universities duly accredited by the Adventist Accrediting Association appear listed in the Yearbook with their accreditation name and are identified by the acronym AAA. (see FE 20 35 item 8.)

INDEX OF ENDORSED AND ADJUNCT ENDORSED FACULTY

Denominational Endorsement of Teachers in Religion, Theology, and Ministerial Training in Seventh-day Adventist Educational Institutions

Seventh-day Adventist colleges, seminaries, and universities openly uphold and teach what the body of Seventh-day Adventist church members agree to be the best current understanding of the Bible. The International Board of Ministerial and Theological Education (IBMTE) provides overall guidance and standards for the professional training that Church-supported institutions offer to pastors, evangelists, theologians, teachers of Bible and religion, chaplains, and other denominational employees involved in ministerial and religious formation.

IBMTE now offers a Certificate of Denominational Endorsement to those who have been recommended by their schools and divisions. The certificate certifies that an individual has met the professional and ethical standards of the IBMTE and is authorized to teach religion and theology and provide ministerial training in Seventh-day Adventist institutions. It promotes transparency, disclosure and mutual accountability regarding standards for teaching religion/theology in Seventh-day Adventist Schools.

The Seventh-day Adventist Yearbook will now list under the schools with which they are associated the names of those individuals who have been given the Certificate of Denominational Endorsement. The names will be listed at the end of the administration section, and also under their sub-school, if the institution is divided into sub-entities. The headings for these names will be Endorsed Faculty, or Adjunct Endorsed Faculty (adjunct means teaching less than full-time or primarily employed at another institution). This index will provide an alphabetical listing of these individuals with their schools, with Adjunct Endorsed Faculty being indicated by (Adj) at the end of their listing.
